Glittering event celebrates charity's 10th anniversary

Give A Gift's fundraising total now over £200,000 for poorly children and vulnerable people

Celebrating an epic ten years so far, Give A Gift's milestone annual dinner arrived with a touch of style. Some 200 guests were given a VIP welcome at Aagrah Midpoint on Saturday 1st July, to help mark the charity's decade of work helping some of the most vulnerable individuals and families living in the UK.

Around 75 percent of all donations made by Britain's South Asians go to causes overseas. The Muslim communities from the UK are the biggest givers to charity with a whopping £1.4 billion donated to some of the world's most poverty/war stricken countries.

With a significant need for funding at local level, in 2013, Give A Gift began their journey into raising awareness of help and support needed by some of the most disadvantaged communities across West Yorkshire; as well as raising funds for hospitals and charities here in the UK.

They began their journey by supporting the Leeds Children's Heart Surgery Fund (CHSF), which supports the Children's Heart Unit. Around one in four babies and young children requiring life-saving heart surgery are from South Asian Back ground.

Along with this cause, they raised the profile of Martin House Hospice which provides family-led hospice care free of charge for children and young people with life-limiting illnesses.

To date, Give A Gift, has raised an amazing £200,000 for a number of charities including Martin House Children's Charity, Leeds CHSF, children's cancer charity Candlelighters, and Bradford Hospitals.

Guests at the annual dinner heard words of appreciation from CHSF, Martin House and Candlelighters, as well as heart-wrenching stories of vulnerable people in Yorkshire.

Give A Gift's works has expanded to tirelessly working with disadvantaged communities, providing food parcels, school uniforms, clothes, winter coats and in emergency situations, accommodation.

All this work is only made possible with their team of volunteers ranging from 11-year-olds to pensioners! Rifhat Malik MBE, from Give A Gift said: "We are so proud to be celebrating or tenth year.

"Of course, none of this would be possible without the incredible support we've have from local businesses and individuals. A huge sincere thank you to each and every one of you for entrusting us to carry out the work we do. And, of course, a huge thank you goes out to all of our volunteers that make it possible for us to deliver our projects."

But, with food poverty and the cost of living crisis one of the most pressing issues currently, the number of individuals and families seeking support and help is unprecedented.

"With levels of poverty in this country higher than ever before, we're literally sending out hundreds of culturally-appropriate food parcels via our Culture Hub each week," says Rifhat.

"The Cultural Food Hub complements our existing food supply provision, and with the support from Leeds City Council will ensure that we can help meet the cultural food needs of the different communities we serve.

"Please remember that every penny counts towards helping someone else. Get involved, and don't hesitate to find out more about what we do."

Ambassador working to help children born with congenital heart defects

Saira Ali with CHSF's Olivia Lewis and Dr Zulfi Karim - Deputy Lieutenant, and current High Sheriff of West Yorkshire

"Sadly congenital heart disease is still misunderstood in some communities, I'm here to help make a change"

Saira Ali, Team Leader for Landscape, Design and Conservation at Bradford Council, announced as an ambassador for Leeds Children's Heart Surgery Fund

A charity which supports children and adults born with congenital heart defects across Yorkshire has appointed a new ambassador to assist South Asian families.

The Children's Heart Surgery Fund (CHSF) supports the Leeds Congenital Heart Unit at LGI, where around one in five children and babies are of Asian background, and are in need of life-saving surgery.

Bradford-based Dr Saira Ali will be helping CHSF partner with local community organisations or religious institutions to host events or provide resources for families affected by heart disease.

As an ambassador for CHSF, Saira will use her platform to raise awareness about the impact of congenital heart disease on children and families, and encourage others to get involved in supporting the charity, including those communities who may be least familiar with impact of congenital heart disease.

"I feel a deep connection to the cause and would like to support children and their families when they are in need," says Saira.

"My role will entail raising awareness about the impact of congenital heart disease on families, using my personal and professional networks to spread the word about the charity's mission and programmes, and encourage others to get involved in supporting the cause."

Receiving a Doctorate from the University of Bradford in 2022 in recognition of her 'significant commitment to improving the environment, Climate Change and the promotion of greener, healthier communities', Saira serves as Team Leader for Landscape, Design and Conservation at Bradford Council.

She's led her team on innovating research and networking projects, such as URBACT Healthy Cities, and securing Bradford in the 2109 Future Place Programme. In 2021, she was recognised as Susdrain's SuDS Champion 'Rising Star' in 2021, and was 'Highly Commended' as 'One to Watch', British Muslim Awards 2022.

On becoming an ambassador for CHSF, she says: ""As a Yorkshire-based women of South Asian background, I recognise the importance engaging with our many communities and giving back to local charities. My new role allows me make a tangible difference in the lives of others.

> "1 in 125 babies are born with congenital heart disease and I want to make a positive impact on the lives of current and future families and the young patients affected by this disease.

"I will be visiting inpatients and their families within the Leeds Congenital Heart Unit to learn first-hand how I can help the charity and Unit to enhance their support, and by attending key CHSF events I can network with local heart families and support the CHSF team with their own fundraising and marketing objectives.

"1 in 125 babies are born with congenital heart disease and I want to make a positive impact on the lives of current and future families and the young patients affected by this disease.

"Sadly, congenital heart disease is still misunderstood in some communities, and I hope to help secure wider recognition for the work the hospital and CHSF do."

CHSF were looking for another ambassador who is respected by and embedded within the richly diverse communities across the regions we represent and has a strong track record of being heavily involved in showing community leadership and improving the lives of the community members they are in touch with. Saira Ali was the obvious choice as not only is she an empathic and caring individual, but she is a strong advocate for improving the lives of communities and a well-respected community leader.

Former cricket umpire Dickie Bird OBE has been CHSF's ambassador since 2017, and he has since donated £65k of his own money to the cause and attended both the ward and CHSF events on numerous occasions.

CHSF also have a Youth Ambassador - Junior Frood - who is an anti-bullying campaigner and freestyle dance champion. He has been promoting the cause for over five-years, has become a firm favourite with CHSF's heart mums and can currently be seen in Britain's Got Talent as part of the dance troupe Unity.

School apologises

Principal discovered that its Muslim pupils were being served non-halal meat

Councillor Akef Akbar: "I appreciate the school's transparent and prompt action and their commitment to treating this matter seriously."

The school, run by Outwood Grange Academies Trust, set up its own kitchen in 2016, according to a letter sent out to parents by Mr Fenton. He said the canteen decided to serve only halal meat "some years ago... because that is important to the majority of our community".

After discovering that not all the meat served at the school had been halal, Mr Fenton said senior leaders had made "changes that will ensure this cannot happen again" and a specialist catering company has now been appointed.

"I know that you will be very disappointed to hear this news but I would like to reassure you that it was a mistake and I am very sorry that it has happened," he said in the letter to parents.

Speaking with Asian Express, a spokesperson from Outwood Grange Academies Trust said: "We offer a sincere apology for this unfortunate situation and have taken immediate action to prevent any recurrence.

"Since identifying this serious issue, which pre-dates the school joining our Trust, we have been working with the local authority, who oversaw the school until September 2022, to actively engage with the community, local councillors and faith leaders who have told us that they are confident in the actions we have taken.

"The school joined our Trust at the beginning of this academic year when it was rated 'Inadequate' by Ofsted. Since then, we have been auditing every aspect of the school's operations, including its processes and contracts in order to raise standards. Moving forward, we will continue our formal investigation to ascertain the full details of the situation."

'Extremely disappointed'

Wakefield East councillor Akef Akbar said: "I am disappointed that the school has misrepresented halal food.

"Consuming halal is fundamental to the Islamic way of life. As Muslims we regularly eat vegetarian where meat options are not available, if the school were unable to cater it should have made known so that students and parents could have made an informed decision.

"On the other hand, I am appreciative that the Outwood Grange Academy Trust conducted an immediate investigation, acted transparently, and promptly to address and rectify the issue. Their actions demonstrate their commitment to treating this matter seriously."

Cllr Akbar met with Sir Martyn Oliver, CEO of Outwood Grange Academies Trust, other leading members of the Trust, Andy Lancashire Service Director for Education at Wakefield Council, other local councillors and representatives from both Swafia and Ghausia Masjid.

Cllr Akbar explains: "Prior to 2017, school meals were provided by Wakefield Council's school catering service, Kingswood. When Kingswood provided the school meals, all the meat was halal. But from 2017 onwards the school has delivered its own catering arrangements, in-house.

"Wakefield Council have expressed that they are extremely disappointed that a school in our district has misrepresented food served to their pupils.

"But, I appreciate the school's transparent and prompt action and their commitment to treating this matter seriously."

The school have profusely apologised as have the council. Sir Martyn has confirmed that he will ensure all schools under the trust obtain HMC certification.

Over £4 million of cannabis seized

Officers from West Yorkshire Police have seized cannabis estimated to be worth more than £4 million after executing 50 search warrants as part of a national operation aimed at tackling organised crime groups (OCGs).

A total of 46 people were arrested for offences linked to the drugs trade as part of the campaign.

Throughout June, West Yorkshire Police located and searched the cannabis grows with the aim of unearthing and disrupting the OCGs and their illegal revenue streams.

Over 8,000 cannabis plants were seized, as well as cash, weapons and other drugs as part a nationally-coordinated campaign known as Operation Mille.

Detective Chief Inspector Jonathan Key, of West Yorkshire Police's Programme Precision, which targets serious organised crime in the county, said:

"By going after the criminals involved in cannabis production we have disrupted their activities. This has been coordinated approach to tackling the large-scale cultivation of cannabis in West Yorkshire.

"Cultivation of cannabis which is a key source of illicit income for organised gangs. The connection between serious crime and cannabis cultivation is clear – the drugs trade fuels gang violence in our communities and leads to untold exploitation and misery."

Operation Mille saw all 43 forces as well as Regional Organised Crime Units (ROCUs) and other partner agencies dedicate resources to target the criminal networks involved in cannabis production and other serious criminality.

The intensification period was designed to disrupt OCGs by taking out a key source of their revenue, while simultaneously apprehending many of those involved, safeguarding those being exploited, and increasing intelligence around how the networks operate.

The size of criminal cannabis 'factories' means that damage is often caused to the properties themselves; the buildings can become dangerous as a result of fire risks, unlawful abstraction of electricity, fumes and water damage.

Anyone with information about a potential cannabis factory or drug dealing can contact their local force online or via 101.

People can also contact Crimestoppers, anonymously, on 0800 555 111 or crimestoppers-uk.org

British Citizen Award ceremony honours some of the nation's most outstanding people

On Thursday 29th June at the Palace of Westminster 26 individuals from around the UK were awarded the prestigious British Citizen Award for their exceptional endeavours which have positively impacted communities up and down the country.

The British Citizen Award in partnership with One Stop, is now in its ninth year and recognises an elite group of exceptional individuals twice annually. The prestigious event was hosted by TV presenter Matt Allwright.

The June 2023 cohort of medalists have collectively been responsible for over £21.2m in fundraising, have impacted over five million individuals, and have been committed to their chosen causes for over 398 years collectively.

Each person selected to receive the BCA Medal of Honour as a legacy for their achievements, richly deserves the right to use the letters BCA after their name in perpetual recognition of the nation's gratitude.

Among the 26 honoured was Akef Akbar from West Yorkshire, who received their BCA for Services to Education (BCAe).

Akef is a driving force in the community, uniting people with his strong drive, determination and showing how to work together supporting each other, irrespective of religious background.

Cllr Akbar in recent years has carried out humanitarian work with Hope 4 Humanity in Sindh, Syria and has plans to travel to Gambia this year.

He throws himself fully into fundraising challenges to support community projects that are close to his heart, raising over £150,000, to strengthen the fight against poverty and social injustice through education.

During the pandemic, Akef supported local residents suffering from isolation, fear and financial crisis and assisted families financially to meet basic needs such as food and bills.

The recent cohort of medalists have collectively been responsible for over £21.2m in fundraising, have impacted over five million individuals

During the pandemic, Akef supported local residents suffering from isolation, fear and financial crisis and assisted families financially to meet basic needs such as food and bills. Throughout the pandemic he assisted with Muslim burials during a time when PPE was limited, and no vaccine was in place.

Recently, Akef has funded free school uniforms as well as volunteering at local charity Hope 4 Humanity which operates both here in the UK and abroad. He uses his professional profile to create better community connections across different religions and faiths and works with local institutions to create better relationships across his community.

As a member of his local Mosque, Swafia Masjid, he identified the need to support positive relations with the non-Muslim community. This inter-cultural cohesion is attributed to paving his path to helping his community in a multi-faceted way.

Akef was presented with the Medal of Honour by Stephanie Wood, from BCA Partners One Stop who said: "It's a true honour to be partnering with the British Citizen Awards again this year and a huge congratulations to all of those who have been honoured.

"During what can only be described as a challenging last couple of years, it's been so wonderful to hear of those stories from our medallists and how they're striving to better their communities and supporting those who need it most."

Immediately following the formal presentations the medalists and their families boarded an open top bus for a Lap of Honour Tour courtesy of Big Bus London.

After taking in some of the iconic sights of the capital they disembarked at Church House in Westminster for a Certificate of Honour presentation. The certificates, presented by representatives from One Stop, Specsavers, Places for People, Uniserve and Objective HR, completed the official BCA proceedings. Each of the organisations associated with the BCA reflect the community-spirit and care for the community that the medalists are recognised for.

The British Citizen Award was established in 2015 to recognise exceptional individuals who work tirelessly and selflessly to make a positive impact on their communities and society. The BCA recognises true community heroes who would otherwise likely be overlooked.

Dubbed 'The People's Honours', the BCA has so far recognised over 480 exceptional individuals for their divergent endeavours, making them a very exclusive group of the nation's favourites.

Anyone with an MBE, OBE or Knighthood is ineligible for a BCA having already been deemed to have received recognition, however, anyone receiving the BCA can still be nominated for the other honours. Nominations can be made a www.britishcitizenawards.co.uk.

She ended her tour on 6th July by unveiling a plaque in the foyer of the unit in the presence of Chief Executive of Bradford Teaching Hospitals NHS Foundation Trust, Professor Mel Pickup, and members of the Maternity team and other guests.

The £8 million theatres, which carry out planned and emergency caesareans and other complicated deliveries, were built during COVID when work never stopped, either for the builders or the Maternity team which continued to deliver babies, day in, day out.

Mel Pickup; Dr Nada Sabir, Clinical Director, Women's Services; Jen Inglis, Labour Ward Co-ordinator and Obstetric Theatre Manager; and Amanda Hardaker, Lead Matron for Quality and Safety, accompanied The Princess Royal on the tour.

The Princess Royal also visited Maternity's new enhanced maternal care (EMC) recovery rooms, where mums at high risk of complications can be closely monitored following delivery, which are adjacent to the new theatres.

During the visit The Princess Royal also had the opportunity to hear about the work being done by midwives, other members of the Maternity team and the Estates team, to enhance pregnancy and birth experiences.

Since the new theatres opened, 1,904 babies have been born in them, with mums being able to see their babies at all times thanks to the design and layout of the area.

Director of Midwifery at the Trust, Sara Hollins, said: "We're incredibly proud that The Princess Royal chose to visit Bradford again, following her visit to our Birth Centre in 2016, to see how we're progressing on our journey to provide outstanding maternity services to women and babies in the district.

"We value her ongoing support to maternity services and the midwifery profession, in her role as Patron of the Royal College of Midwives (RCM).

"As well as providing fantastic facilities, the theatres are a really good and positive thing as they represent life, birth, joy and new beginnings. Really importantly, it's also a much better environment for women: it's a softer clinical environment for them and their dignity is better protected. This is all about the woman's journey and remembering that women are at the centre of everything we do.

"They also provide a whole new, better and more efficient way of working for the theatres team. The building of the new theatres and EMC recovery area has given them a new sense of ownership and pride, and being able to incorporate the changes needed from the women's perspective has given the team a sense of achievement."

This year's Pakistan Society's Jinnah Medal was presented at the annual dinner to the renowned British actor Art Malik at The Great Hall, Lincoln's Inn where the founder of Pakistan, Quaid e Azam Mohammad Ali Jinnah was called to the Bar in 1896.

Art Malik, born Athar Ul Haque Malik in Bahawalpur in 1952, over the last four decades has been a constant on the global stage from London's West End to Broadway in New York.

With over 44 television productions and more than 34 feature films to his name, Malik has worked with some of the best writers, actors, producers and directors in the industry. His latest film Disney's The Little Mermaid is delighting cinema audiences around the world.

A more recent and important aspect of his work has been as co-chairman of the Graham Layton Trust, which has provided free eye care to over 56 million patients in Pakistan through the Layton Rahmatulla Benevolent Trust hospitals and clinics.

Art Malik's father was an ophthalmologist at the well-know London eye hospital, Moorfields. Upon retirement, he volunteered with Layton Rahmatulla Benevolent Trust, performing surgeries and teaching at their hospital in Karachi.

Malik knew very little of his father's involvement with the Trust or the scale of the network of 80 hospitals and clinics and it was an unexpected collaboration that led to the revelation of his father's extraordinary philanthropic efforts.

The President of Pakistan, HE Dr. Arif Alvi, in his message as Patron, said: "By promoting a deeper appreciation of Pakistani art, culture, literature, history and heritage, the Society continues to help nurture bonds of friendship, understanding and goodwill among our two nations and people.

"Pakistan and the United Kingdom's relationship spans multiple areas and diverse domains. Our vibrant and dynamic Pakistan community, whom the Society so ably represents, is the linchpin of our bilateral ties. We value the important role played by the Society in carrying forward the historic legacy of Pakistan-UK partnership to our future generations."

Founded in 1951 and based in London, The Pakistan Society aims to increase public knowledge in Britain of the arts, history, geography, economic life and institutions of Pakistan. Its patron is the President of the Islamic Republic of Pakistan.

The Guests of Honour at The Pakistan Society's 68th Annual Dinner included the High Commissioner for the Islamic Republic of Pakistan HE Moazzam Ahmad Khan and Ambassador Leena Salim Moazzam.

Keynote speakers included the renowned architect Prof. Yasmeen Lari HI, who's career includes challenging architecture and architects to becoming responsible for a future that works towards ecological justice and "treads lightly on the planet."

The High Commissioner for Pakistan, H.E. Moazzam Ahmad Khan, commented: "Within the civil society space, The Pakistan Society is the flag bearer of the abiding friendship between Pakistan and the United Kingdom.

"It continues to play a commendable role in fostering greater understanding of Pakistan and its rich literary and cultural heritage and in this way, bringing Pakistan and the UK closer together."

The Pakistan Society serves as an international organisation and is a registered charity with close to four hundred members, drawn both from persons of British origin and from those of Pakistani origin. Its motto of "Bringing Pakistan and Britain together" remains as relevant today as it was when the Society was formed.

Nearly 3 million displaced by Sudan conflict

People fleeing the ongoing fighting in Sudan arrive in Chad (Photo: F. Ada Affana/IOM)

Nearly 3 million people have been displaced internally and across borders by the conflict in Sudan, in less than three months.

In addition to the more than 2.2 million internally displaced people (IDPs), nearly 700,000 others have fled into neighbouring countries, according to the latest figures by the International Organization for Migration (IOM's) Displacement Tracking Matrix (DTM).

Most of the people displaced in Sudan have fled from Khartoum state (67%) and Darfur (33%) towards Northern state (16%), River Nile (14%), West Darfur (7%) and White Nile states. Food, access to health services and essential relief items remain critically lacking. While most IDPs live with the host community, over 280,000 of them are currently living in last resort shelters such as camps, public buildings, and improvised shelters, particularly in White Nile state (DTM).

Mixed movements have been observed across the border into Egypt (40%), Chad (28%), South Sudan (21%), Ethiopia and the Central African Republic. Of the over 697,000 people who crossed into neighbouring countries, 65% are Sudanese and 35% are estimated to be returnees and third country nationals (TCNs). Most are in extremely precarious conditions.

The continued escalation of violence is compounding an already dire humanitarian situation in the country and the region. At least 24.7 million people – about half the population of Sudan – are in urgent need of humanitarian aid and protection, one third of whom are in Darfur, where the situation is deteriorating dramatically.

"IOM reiterates calls for a permanent ceasefire and removal of bureaucratic impediments, to ensure safe and guaranteed humanitarian corridors and enable the delivery of aid to people in hard-to-reach areas," said IOM MENA Regional Director, Othman Belbeisi.

Under the Sudan Crisis and Neighbouring Countries Response, operations have scaled up across Sudan, Chad, South Sudan, Ethiopia, Egypt, Libya and the Central African Republic. In Sudan, a large number of containers with relief items have arrived in Port Sudan, to be distributed through partners and the common Humanitarian pipeline.

In Chad, over 22,400 people have been reached with assistance; in South Sudan over 37,900 people have been reached with Onward Transportation Assistance (OTA); in Ethiopia, over 48,500 people have been reached with multi-sectoral assistance; in Egypt, over 20,800 people have been reached with direct assistance and distribution of relief items, and in Libya, IOM is preparing for the distribution of non-food items (NFIs) and hygiene kits prepositioned in Al Kufra to new arrivals.

Bishop's call to end financial injustice and inequality

The Bishop of Blackburn has issued a call to end the 'injustice and inequality' in the structures of The Church of England that leads to some Dioceses sitting on 'cash piles' while others have nothing.

Writing in this week's Church Times newspaper, Rt Rev. Philip North calls out what he sees as a 'stubborn refusal' to change direction in relation to finance.

After years of accepting the status quo, Bishop Philip believes it's time for attitudes to shift inside the church; particularly as it continues to condemn inequality in the rest of society.

In doing so he highlights issues in the North West in his own Diocese of Blackburn (The Church of England in Lancashire) and in neighbouring Liverpool Diocese too.

The Bishop says: "Christians care about justice. The Bible sets before us a vision of a Kingdom in which the hungry are fed, the sick are healed and all live in harmony with each other and the created world.

"We know it is our duty and joy to build that future kingdom now, which is why we are so quick to condemn inequality and speak out against poverty.

"But if we are to condemn injustice and inequality when we see it elsewhere, we must also be willing to address it within our own structures. And one area where we stubbornly refuse to do this is finance."

Bishop Philip continued: "Recently the new Bishop of Liverpool, Rt Rev. John Perumbalath, wrote to colleagues to outline the severity of their financial situation, one that has resulted in urgent engagement with the national church and a partnership with an Independent Reviewer to help them identify financial solutions.

"This is not because of mistakes on the part of Liverpool Diocese. Indeed that diocese has for years benefited from some of the finest financial managers in the Church and has shown courage and agility in naming and addressing underlying issues. The problem is that they have no inherited assets, whereas the average level of endowment in dioceses nationally is £40 million.

"And in the Diocese of Blackburn we are not far behind. The 2022 deficit of the Diocesan Board of Finance here is one of the lowest in the country; while giving in our parishes is heroic and has bounced back from Covid. And yet, in three or four years' time we may well be where Liverpool is now. Why? We also have almost no endowment income … whilst other Dioceses sit on cash piles which will last them for decades."

Bishop Philip acknowledges his Diocese warmly welcomes any investment from the national Church and has done so in recent years as the Church Commissioners, working with the Archbishops' Council, have released funds on an unprecedented scale to all dioceses for growth and transformation plans.

But he firmly believes what dioceses such as Liverpool and Blackburn (both serving highly deprived parts of the country) need more than anything else is endowment.

"How is it fair that the finances of dioceses that are supposedly part of the same Church vary so wildly because of a freak of history which means that some got lucky when the big bucks were being given out?"

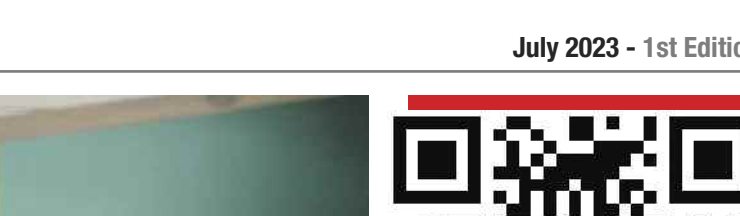

And Bishop Philip adds: "If we are one Church, why should not every diocese benefit from that average endowment figure of £40 million? The income from such a sum would both wipe out our structural deficit and give us a surplus to invest in mission without touching the capital sum. There is absolutely no reason at all why this should not happen tomorrow."

In making his points, the Bishop invokes the leaders of the early church saying: "Are we or are we not a Church that wishes to live in obedience to the Scriptures? In Acts 4:35 the disciples made distribution, 'To each according to their needs'. While in 2 Corinthians 9:5, Paul incites his hearers to make not an 'exaction' but a 'willing gift'.

Bishop Philip concludes by saying: "Paul also writes in 1 Corinthians 4: 14 'I write these things not to make you ashamed'. I don't want to shame anyone. But poorer dioceses … are no longer prepared to put up with this gross and chronic injustice. So let's address it not out of shame, but in order to live the Gospel with even greater joy."

Gender Selection

Gender Selection

There are many different medical, social, economic and cultural circumstances which put couples under the most intense pressure to produce a child of a specific gender.Scientists have identified thousands of health problems where genes play a part and many gender-related medical disorders can be passed from parent to child.

Gender Selection is one of the leading PGD Gender Selection and Ovum Donation referral centres and facilitators in Europe. Of the successful pregnancies resulting from this process, 100% of the babies born have been of the selected gender.

We work to an established programme which has been validated over hundreds of treatments.

This programme is fully explained on our website and in our online information.

Most of the PGD treatment is carried out in the U.K. The actual PGD embryo biopsy is done in our associate clinics abroad. This visit only requires around 10 days.

Gender selection treatment is not permitted in the UK. Gender Selection acts from outside the UK as a facilitator to enable treatment to be arranged and carried out in fully-accredited clinics in countries in which the gender selection treatment process is permitted. Initial tests and assessments can be arranged in the UK.

Pre-implantation Genetic Diagnosis (PGD) is a medical procedure which allows embryos to be tested for gender-related genetic conditions, prior to being placed in the womb, giving the best opportunity to select the gender of your baby.

- ✔ Gender Selection with PGD/IVF
- ✔ Choose the sex of your child
- ✔ PGD to prevent inherited conditions
- ✔ Only healthy embryos transferred
- ✔ Money back guarantee for failed treatment
- ✔ 3-cycle package available
- ✔ Free detailed consultation

One Roof charity delivers food parcels

As families in Leicester continue to struggle financially due to the rising cost of living, Islamic Relief UK supported One Roof Leicester to help over 200 people with food and essential items on Wednesday 5 July 2023.

This was part of a wider initiative led by Islamic Relief UK involving twenty-six partners across the country to deliver food packs, Qurbani meat and Eid gifts.

One Roof Leicester is a charity providing accommodation and support to single people who are homeless in Leicester. Residents are accommodated in shared houses and provided with intense one to one support from a key worker to enable them to rebuild their lives and move into independent living.

The charity reports that they are seeing an increase in the number of people using the food banks and dependency on food parcels is increasing. Many people have been hit hard by the cost-of-living crisis, especially low-income families, those suffering from domestic abuse, people who are homeless, asylum seekers and refugees.

Salma Ravat, CEO of One Roof Leicester said: "We started the foodbank as a response to Covid but the on-going financial pressures faced by the people we support means they are still struggling to manage. The partnership with Islamic Relief UK allows us to help more people and make sure they receive a bag filled with nutritious food."

"We absolutely need better rights as to what happens to your voice or your face or your body when it's recorded in digital media."

These are the thoughts of Dr Mathilde Pavis, of the University of Reading's School of Law, in response to a legal battle between performer Greg Marston and IBM after the former discovered his AI-manipulated voice was being used online without his knowledge.

Dr Mathilde Pavis has teamed up with the union Equity to create a guide for stars of the screen that will help them retain rights to their likeness.

Commenting on the emerging controversy, Dr Pavis said: "The UK legal framework is not well designed to protect performers from unauthorised imitations of their work using AI technology. The best things performers and content creators working with them can do is educate themselves on their rights and use contracts smartly.

"Today, the UK legal framework is not well designed to protect performers because it is made up of a complex patchwork of different laws. This impacts performers who want to work with AI technologies and those who want to stay away from it altogether. Current laws are difficult to navigate for performers, technology developers and for media production companies. As it stands, it is a lose-lose situation.

"Performers are amongst the creators most vulnerable to unauthorised digital imitations generated because their work not only contains their intellectual property (their performances) but it also captures their personal data like their face, their voice and their body.

"In this regard, performers' interests should be the government's top priority when it comes to reforming the law in light of new AI technologies. All citizens stand to gain from the protection the law extends to performers because it will create important industry standards on what technology developers can and cannot do with people's voices and likenesses.

"Protecting your legal and economic interests by using a contract adapted to AI work is not about being an "innovation sceptic" or "anti-AI" – to the contrary. Performers will need to put in place the same type of measures (like contractual clauses) to protect their interests whether they want to collaborate with AI companies to develop new products or avoid being involved in projects which feature AI technology.

"The Equity toolkit will work well to set new industry standards with AI companies keen to "do the right thing" and self-govern in this way. Law reforms and new regulations will still be needed to make sure performers, and other content creators, have the means to protect themselves in cases where their work will be misused by technology users or market players not sharing Equity's vision for AI."

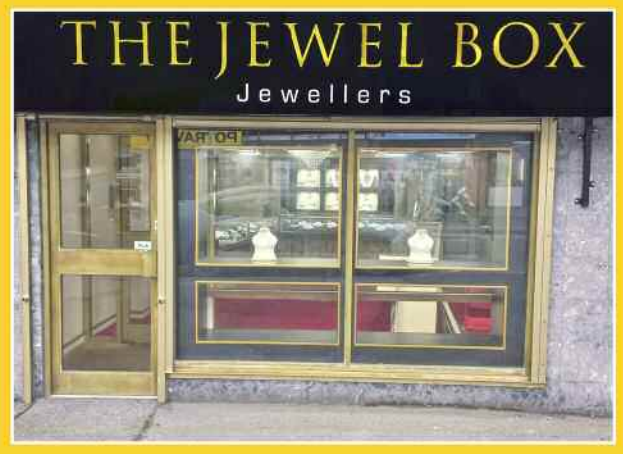

"The UK legal framework is not well designed to protect performers from unauthorised imitations of their work using AI technology."

Samia Malik:

Musical forms exploring contemporary issues around identity, race and gender

A UK based bilingual Urdu/English singer songwriter, fuses and subverts traditional South Asian and Western musical forms to explore contemporary issues around identity, race and gender.

Samia Malik, born in Saudi Arabia to Pakistani parents, has lived in the UK since she was a child.

She writes, performs and produces bilingual Urdu and English songs based on traditional Urdu Ghazal (a highly refined union of poetry with music) extending and subverting the form to explore contemporary issues around identity, race and gender.

Samia is also a visual artist: her live shows are supported by projections of her original paintings and videos.

Having released a new album, she's now on tour this month across England.

Samia's powerful original songs are written in Urdu and English, combining soaring Eastern melodies, electronics, tabla and deep bass grooves which are supported by live visuals of Samia's original art and translations.

Throughout the tour, Samia will host a series of audience Q&As and workshops, exploring core themes that have inspired her music.

She has collaborated with acclaimed world-class artists including celebrated Indian danseuse and activist Mallika Sarabhai and 'sitarist to the stars' Baluji Shrivastav OBE: her dynamic, evolving work has thrilled international audiences across Europe, India and the States. Samia will be joined on tour for selected venues by internationally renowned tabla maestro Sukhdeep Dhanjal.

The series of workshops will be held with local community groups. Each workshop is designed to help promote understanding and deeper appreciation of Indian music or focus on songwriting skills.

The community groups may also be invited to join Samia on stage to share their new skills.

The tour will also include the launch of her new album Songs to Heal and Empower.

Samia Malik says: "I believe art can inform and transform.

"At a time when barriers are being put up across the world, it is vital to see how art can unite us, how we can use traditional cross-cultural forms to explore important contemporary issues around culture, race, identity and gender, while also having fun!

"I am thrilled to have the chance to develop and share this new work which will appeal to diverse audience across the UK."

Hedley Swain, Area Director, South East, Arts Council England said: "It is really exciting to support diverse artists that are pushing the creative boundaries.

"Samia's work represents a wonderful fusion of styles and cultures, bringing together music from South East Asia and Europe, as well as English and Urdu. I hope that our support will mean more people will have the chance to experience this authentic, bold and innovative fusion music."

Live Performances will tour venues across the whole of England including Leeds, Bradford, Cromer, Torquay and Blackburn as well as Sidmouth Folk Festival and Rural Touring across Norfolk and Lancashire.

CHILDCARE: Funding boost

£204 million cash boost given to nurseries to support the expansion of childcare places

Sixteen local authorities selected to deliver landmark primary school childcare provision for every family between 8am and 6pm.

Nurseries are set to receive a £204 million cash boost as part of the Government's promise to deliver the largest ever investment in childcare.

The plans, which were announced in the Spring Budget, are designed to remove significant barriers to support parents to return to work and help to grow the economy by making childcare more accessible.

Every area across the country is getting a share of the Government funding which childcare providers can use to ease cost pressures such as staffing costs, training and bills. Funding rates per child paid from September will increase from an average of £5.29 to £5.62 for three and four-year-olds, and from an average of £6.00 to £7.95 for two-year-olds.

The increase in funding will support the early years sector to deliver the biggest investment in childcare ever

The increase in funding will support the early years sector to deliver the biggest investment in childcare ever.

From April 2024, eligible working parents of two-year-olds will get a new offer of 15 free hours per week of free childcare. From September 2024, eligible parents will get 15 free hours from nine months until their children start school, and from September 2025, they will get 30 free hours from nine months until the start of school.

Separately, the Government has confirmed plans to deliver its ambition for all parents of primary school aged children to access childcare in their local area between 8am and 6pm.

16 local authorities from Barnsley to Wiltshire have been selected to work with the Government to develop plans for this universal provision, with some of these areas expected to be the first to rollout the wraparound care as early as summer 2024.

All local authorities will start to receive their share of £289 million in funding from January 2024 to support their delivery of the programme, with parents expected to see an expansion in the availability of wraparound care from September 2024.

Education Secretary, Gillian Keegan said: "Today is a great step forward as we deliver on the largest ever expansion of childcare which will be transformational for working families and will help grow our economy.

"This initial investment of over £200 million will go a long way in supporting the fantastic early years sector to prepare for the expansion of free childcare hours available to parents next year."

World's oldest 'stomach stone' fossil found on Jurassic Coast

A 150-million-year-old stomach stone has been found in the UK, making it the oldest discovered fossil of its kind.

Found by renowned palaeontologist Dr Steve Etches MBE, in Kimmeridge, Dorset, the fist-shaped fossil originates from the Jurassic era. The relic is 59 million years older than the oldest known fossilised stomach stone.

Nigel Larkin, palaeontologist and Visiting Research Fellow at the School of Biological Sciences at the University of Reading, led the study, published in Proceedings of the Geologists' Association this week. Upon its discovery, Nigel was immediately sure that the fossil was of a biological origin rather than a geological origin.

He said: "I was fascinated by this very curious mystery object and was determined to discover what it was.

"Unless stomach stones are actually found preserved within a skeleton it is almost impossible to tell what sort of animal it might have formed inside.

"The size of this stomach stone, and considering it was found in clay from the Upper Jurassic era, indicates it most likely formed inside a large marine reptile such as an ichthyosaur, plesiosaur, pliosaur or crocodilian. The stomach stone did not come from a dinosaur - as dinosaurs lived on land - but this is still a very exciting and rare discovery."

Biological origins

The fossil was found on the Jurassic Coast at Kimmeridge, Dorset, by sharp-eyed palaeontologist Dr Steve Etches MBE.

> "The size of this stomach stone, and considering it was found in clay from the Upper Jurassic era, indicates it most likely formed inside a large marine reptile."

Upon discovering the specimen, the fossil collector passed it on to fossil experts who dismissed the specimen as something formed by geological processes.

The stone was then passed on to Nigel Larkin, who compared it to material in the collections of the Royal College of Surgeons, England, and the UCL Pathology collections. He soon identified it as a 'calculus' – a stomach stone, bladder stone, kidney stone or similar, due to its very specific internal structure.

These mineral 'stones' can form naturally in any animal, not just humans, under certain dietary or environmental conditions. Ancient examples have been discovered in Egyptian mummies but only a handful have been discovered in the fossil record. It is suspected that more must exist, but they have not been recognised for what they are.

Dr Ivan Sansom, Senior Lecturer in Palaeobiology at the University of Birmingham, carried out microscopic analyses of the stone to determine the exact structure of the specimen and what minerals it was made of. He concluded the specimen has all the characteristics of a calculus, in fact one formed in a gastro-intestinal tract - known as a 'stomach stone.'

Acting Within The System

In an article published last year entitled "Trying To Beat The System", readers will be familiar with the case of Abbott & Others v Ministry of Defence. In that case the solicitors acting for 3,500 Claimants who were seeking damages against the Ministry of Defence for noise induced hearing loss had sought to issue 3,500 claims on a single Claim Form rather than on separate Claim Forms thereby avoiding having to pay a court fee for each claim. The High Court Master ruled that this was an abuse of process and ordered for separate Claim Forms to be issued in respect of each case within 6 months, failing which the individual claims would be struck out.

The Appeal Judges were told that 3,017 Claimants had managed to issue that more than 100 Claims Forms which had been lodged with the Court had still not been issued 3 months after the deadline. Further, many Claimants were entitled to partial remission on fees but were nevertheless charged the full £10,000 court fee for their claim. The Claimants argued that the Master's ruling had substantially increased the administrative burden on the Court as well as adding to the costs of the litigation whilst serving no real practical purpose.

The Divisional Court allowed the appeal and set aside the Master's Order. The Divisional Court Judges found that the Master had been wrong to think that each Claimant needed to issue their own Claim Form and that he had misjudged the consequent difficulties for the court system.

The Divisional Court held that the real question was not whether there was a large number of Claimants and/of causes of action but rather, whether it was convenient to dispose of the issues arising between the parties in a single set of proceedings. The degree of commonality between the causes of action would be the most important factor in determining whether it would, or would not, be convenient to dispose of them in a single set of proceedings and they found that there was such commonality in these cases.

This judgment will be welcome by the Claimants and it has clarified the issue that the use of a single Claim Form in an appropriate group action is not an abuse of process.

SCENT SALIM

FINE ARABIAN SCENTS

Imagine over 1,000 scents with inspiration and ingredients taken from traditional Arabian sources and blended in a way that combines East and West.

This is exactly what you have with Scent Salim – a company which draws its customers from around the world.

Fragrances created by Scent Salim are a delight for the olfactory senses. For those familiar with Oud fragrances this is a treasure trove of delights – bringing the best ingredients and superb customer service together. If you are not so familiar this is a chance to purchase a scent you may never have smelled before – or to have your own bespoke fragrance made.

STORY OF SUCCESS

"We were one of the pioneers for bringing in these niche products into the Western market," he said. Ilyas explained that when he started the company there were very few people sourcing their own products and creating and blending their own fragrances here in the UK from these products.

ABOUT THE PERFUMES

This is the home of over 1,000 scents – Ilyas says they can recreate any perfume for a client. The products are made from natural and oils and sourced from all over Asia and the Middle East.

It is this concentration on genuine, quality products, from the original source that make the scents so special.

"We concentrate on the quality and that's why we don't want to grow too fast," he explained.

Oud is the generic Arabic term for incense, or resinous wood taken from the agarwood tree. The agarwood trees in question are located in specific areas in the world – Malaysia, India, Cambodia, Indonesia and Brunei. The wood in these trees is of tremendous value, as the resin within them is distilled to create pure Oud scents.

Oud itself has gained popularity among celebrities, Royals and artisans worldwide. It offers a depth of fragrance, which is mulit-layered and, Ilyas explains, lasts longer than a regular "French" style perfume.

But modern methods and a bit of a French/Asian fusion makes these fragrances so accessible and flexible. They are produced in a range of options from room fragrances to fragrant woods for burning.

More than a fifth of homeowners fall victim and lose £thousands

A poll of 2,000 adults on the property ladder found those from Newcastle, London and Sheffield are most likely to have fallen victim to a tradesperson scam.

However, 23 per cent confessed they're still likely to choose the cheapest tradesperson on offer and run the risk, due to the cost of living. And more than a quarter have booked a trade without sourcing references.

This has left around a third of those who have done so regretting their decision to cut corners and forego tradesperson research.

Kim Faura, chief product officer at Checkatrade, which commissioned the research, said: "Recently, we've been hearing from our Checkatrade trades that they are being asked to rectify problems created by rogue and unqualified trades.

"With one in five homeowners intending to do home improvement work this summer, it's vital that they do their research before hiring a trade.

"This includes not only referring to directories like ours and our online reviews but also leaving a review once a job is complete.

"This helps us to continuously monitor if members are upholding the Checkatrade Standard, including committing to carrying out quality and fair work."

The study also found 65 per cent have been left at least slightly disappointed by work carried out in their homes or garden, even if they wouldn't necessarily describe the worker as a rogue tradesperson.

But, the biggest bugbear was the job taking much longer than initially estimated to complete.

Plumbing was revealed as the trade most likely to leave homeowners dissatisfied, followed by painting and decorating and bathroom installations.

When it comes to unsatisfactory work carried out by a rogue trade, people have found themselves on average losing £1,150.

Konstantinos Katsikopoulos, professor of Behavioural Science at the University of Southampton, has revealed the moment at which people drop their guard and are more likely to unknowingly invite a rogue tradesperson into their home.

Professor Katsikopoulos said: "When it comes to risk perception and decision making, people are more likely to cut corners when under bouts of stress, financial pressures and even trusting word-of-mouth recommendations.

"If you find yourself in these scenarios, it's best to not rush a decision, no matter how small the cost, and always do your research."

Child obesity

New specialist clinics to open for overweight children and young people

"Doing nothing is not an option": Hospital admissions of obese youngsters under 17 has nearly tripled in a decade.

Research shows that one fifth of children aged 10-11 years are obese in England.

Now, around 3,000 obese children and young people aged between two and 18, will receive help to lose weight, treatment for complications as well as tailored care packages developed with their family, which could include diet plans, mental health care and coaching.

Thousands more children and young people who are severely obese will receive intensive support from the NHS, with 10 new specialist clinics set to open across England.

The new services will launch this year, bringing the total to 30 clinics that are able to provide expert help to children and their families which can prevent long term conditions including Type 2 diabetes.

NHS chief executive Amanda Pritchard expected says that "doing nothing is not an option" and that earlier intervention can prevent long term health problems such as heart attacks and strokes.

Backed by £18 million over the next two years, the boosted rollout doubles the ambitions set out in the NHS Long Term Plan to introduce 15 new clinics in England.

The expansion comes alongside figures showing that hospital admissions of obese youngsters under 17 has nearly tripled in a decade – going from 3,370 in 2011/12 to 9,431 in 2021/22.

Patients being treated at the new clinics will get access to specialist NHS doctors, nurses, psychologists, social workers and dietitians, who will assess their complications, provide tailored help with diet and lifestyle changes, and deliver mental health support and coaching.

In addition to providing treatment, the clinics will also work at identifying the factors which cause obesity in children and young people by considering their mental wellbeing alongside their physical health.

Professor Simon Kenny, NHS England's National Clinical Director for Children and Young People, said: "Living with excess weight can cause problems affecting every organ system resulting in long term complications such as early death, type 2 diabetes, stroke, early joint replacements and mental health issues.

"These clinics' holistic approach to treating obesity and its causes, will help children and young people in a way that respects them; and works with the specific factors of their individual situation.

"We are committed to helping as many children and young people as possible with their physical and mental health and these additional clinics are an important step in helping vulnerable children and young people live healthier and happier lives".

Childhood and young people obesity can be caused by many factors, such as a treatment for an existing medical condition, genetics, poverty and lifestyle.

Health Minister Neil O'Brien said: "We want to give children and young people the best start in life, and we know that obesity is linked to a whole host of health problems – including cancer and cardiovascular disease.

"We're determined to halve childhood obesity by 2030, and these clinics are a great step forward to get more youngsters the support they need to manage the complications linked to obesity and achieve a healthier weight.

"It builds on action to promote healthier lifestyles, including our £600 million investment over the next two years to promote school sport, and introducing the sugar tax, calorie labelling and restrictions on where unhealthy food is placed in supermarkets to reduce the use of 'pester power' by shops."

The criteria for a child or young person to be referred to NHS Complications from Excess Weight clinic is that they have a body mass index (BMI) above the 99.6 percentile and a complication of excess weight or BMI above the 3.33 Standard Deviation Standard.

Maserati GT2 branded as 'new gem of technology'

At the 24 Hours of Spa – one of the most anticipated racing events in the international motorsport season – Maserati unveiled to the world its latest track creation, the Maserati GT2.

After the announcement of the shakedown in early March, which was followed by an intensive series of tests to tune up the car, the House of the Trident officially unveiled its new gem of technology and performance, developed to bring the Maserati brand back to GT competitions. It had previously carved its name there with the winning MC12, which completely dominated the track from 2005 to 2010.

MASTERPIECE OF PERFORMANCE

Maserati GT2 branded as 'new gem of technology'

The Maserati GT2 is an exceptional synthesis between Maserati's past, present and future: it draws on the living legacy of the MC12; it expresses the best potential, in the racing version, of the MC20 super sports car – taking the already exceptional 463-kW/621-hp Nettuno V6 engine to the extreme, and is preparing to chart a new course in the future of the Trident, which is determined to write exciting new chapters in the history of motorsport.

Maserati has designed and built a racing car dedicated to private teams and gentleman drivers. A masterpiece of performance that combines history, innovation and sporting attitude, features that have always characterised the Trident's track and road cars.

Conceived and designed to take part in championships or individual events reserved for the GT2 class, the Maserati GT2 will debut on the track in the final stages of the 2023 Fanatec GT European Series, and is due to participate in the entire 2024 season.

Davide Grasso, Maserati CEO, commented: "Our DNA and our spirit have always lain in racing. Our story began and developed from the track to the road. The decision to return to track racing forms part of a thorough strategic framework, inaugurated this year with the debut in Formula E, to which we have now added our return to the world of GT competitions. Now more than ever we want to rekindle and nourish that competitive passion that has always characterised and motivated us to achieve major milestones".

The Trident thus celebrates its return to the world of exciting GT competitions with a cutting-edge product, the result of a creative and design partnership between the Maserati Innovation Lab, the Centro Stile Maserati and the technological excellence of the Maserati dynamic simulator.

The Honda Civic family has picked up two award wins and is commended in a third category at the 2023 Auto Express New Car Awards. The Honda Civic e:HEV was named Affordable Hybrid Car of the Year and nominated in the Family Car of the Year category whilst the iconic Type R was crowned Hot Hatch of the Year.

In its 11th generation, the Civic e:HEV launched as part of the vehicles 50th year anniversary celebrations. The Civic e:HEV is a dynamic, self-charging, full hybrid hatchback that has evolved in both comfort and drivability and continues to champion a sporty design with a new dynamic, electrified powertrain.

The Type R followed suit and was launched in its 25th anniversary year. In its sixth generation, the car has been refined and engineered to deliver the most exhilarating Civic Type R performance to date.

The Auto Express New Car Awards highlight the best in class in 25 categories. For the past 12 months, Auto Express' expert panel have been testing all the new cars available to buy in the UK and taking into consideration the way owners use them and need them to perform in order to crown their winners.

Rebecca Adamson, Head of Automobile at Honda UK, commented "We are delighted that the team at Auto Express have recognised the strengths of the Honda Civic family. The Honda Civic e:HEV lends itself perfectly to those in the market for a hybrid vehicle who are not willing to sacrifice a dynamic driving experience. The Civic Type R is our ultimate hot hatch and a testament to Honda's racing excellence. It's a brand icon worthy of all its plaudits."

Steve Fowler, Editor-in-Chief at Auto Express commented "The Civic's double win just shows the breadth of talent the car has, covering so many bases. We've been super-impressed by the hatch with its ability to blend efficiency with comfort, space and quality - it's a great family all-rounder. And much of that applies to the Type R, but with the fun factor turned up to the max. It's an astonishingly good car to drive, with the sort of pace that used to be the preserve of supercars. Few cars at any price have made us smile quite so much as the Civic Type R this year."

Smashing glass ceilings

Roop Kaur Bath, was the mystery schoolgirl who stunned viewers when she did almost 1,100 kick-ups for International Women's Day, aged just 14

Roop Kaur Bath is the first Sikh-Punjabi ever to feature at senior level in a West Ham shirt, shattering a glass ceiling when Sky Sports reported that she had played in a first-team friendly against Hashtag United over the summer.

The central midfielder, who played for QPR and London Bees at junior level, has attracted attention in recent months as she assesses her options ahead of the new season.

FORMULA 1:
Saudi Arabia Grand Prix

The pinnacle of motorsport will be returning to the world's fastest street circuit

Last year's visit of F1 to Jeddah proved to be another spectacular occasion, which saw Red Bull Racing's Sergio Perez cross the finish line after 50 thrilling laps around the Jeddah Corniche Circuit to win In front of a bumper crowd of over 140,000 spectators. In doing so, he ensured that to date there has been a different winner in Jeddah every race. Will we see another new name added to the list next year?

The fun won't stop on the racetrack as the F1 weekend in Jeddah will once again be delivering another incredible line up of live music concerts by some of the biggest acts in the world.

HRH Prince Khalid Bin Sultan Al Abdullah Al-Faisal, Chairman of the Saudi Automobile and Motorcycle Federation and the Saudi Motorsport Company, commented: "Everyone at the Saudi Motorsport Company and the Saudi Automobile and Motorcycle Federation is thrilled to welcome F1 back to Jeddah for the fourth edition of the Formula 1 Saudi Arabian Grand Prix next March.

"The Jeddah Corniche Circuit continues to prove itself to be one of the most exciting and challenging tracks on the F1 calendar, with our previous three races serving up consistently excellent, adrenaline fuelled racing.

"Beyond the action on track, we are working hard to deliver another three days of non-stop entertainment for the whole family with some of the biggest names in music expected to return to our Main Stage once again.

"The Formula 1 Saudi Arabian Grand Prix is an event that caters for everyone and we can't wait to welcome F1 teams, drivers, and fans back to Jeddah once more in 2024!"

Roop Kaur Bath, was the mystery schoolgirl stunned viewers when she did almost 1,100 kick-ups for International Women's Day, aged just 14

Kmita, who was most recently at Watford, became the first professional footballer in West Ham Women's history when she signed a full-time deal with the club back in 2018.

Kmita and Kaur Bath are both featured in the first-ever timeline and wider showcase documenting the journey of South Asian heritage female players in the modern English game.

Speaking to Sky Sports News for some words of advice for Kaur Bath, Kmita said: "She mustn't overthink it. She just needs to take it one game at a time and continue to do the things that allowed her to get there and get into this position in the first place.

"If you start to overthink things then that applies pressure, and I don't think people perform well under pressure.

"She just needs to stay focused on her own game."

Kaur Bath was the mystery schoolgirl who left viewers stunned back in March last year when she did almost 1,100 kick-ups for International Women's Day, aged just 14.

After two spells with QPR, the Sikh-Punjabi central midfielder joined London Bees for the 2021/22 season.

A Middlesex Centre of Excellence graduate, Kaur Bath was part of the Ruislip Rangers side that won the Capital Girls County Cup for the first time in the club's history. She also represented Middlesex at county level prior to joining West Ham.

The midfielder has previously worked with renowned talent developers Elliott Jealous and John Ryan, with former London Bees academy coach Ryan predicting a bright future for the youngster.
